

Screening of leishmanial parasites from domestic and wild animals was carried out in Kacheliba, West Pokot District. Splens and livers of the animals were cultured in NNN diphasic medium. Thin smears of the same tissues were also made and stained with Giemsa stain and examined under microscope. Positive slide smears were obtained from goats and positive cultures obtained in four goats, one rat and two lizards.