

The study aims at determining causal relationships between socio-techno-economic variables influencing mobile phone usage and economic growth