

The project aims at establishing risk factors associated with vascular damage in people living with HIV