

The study aim at developing a predictive analysis model for risk factors associated with hepatocellular cancer to inform prevention in a resource limited setting in Western Kenya