

The study aim at exploring various applications in quantum physics, specifically, commutator approximation, the ground state energy of the chemical systems and sub-systems and food processing techniques